The City-Hall Investigation. It was unfortunate that the City-Hall investigation had to be prolonged so much; but it was not the fault of the committee of investigation. It could only proceed as fast as it could secure the atendance of important witnesses. Could all these witnesses have been gotten to-gether at once the examination of them might have been finished in two or three evenings, and long before this time the mmittee's report might have been written out and acted upon by the City Coun-

However, that is only what might have been. The investigation closed night be-fore last and the committee is now consid-

There has been a deal of smoke proceed-ing from a handful of fire. No bribery has been proved. It does not appear that any member of the Grounds and Buildings ominities or any other member of th Board of Aldermen or City Council sold his vote. Two members did foolishly al-low bidders for City-Hall work to advance them money to pay the expenses of their trip North, agreeing to return the same when they were reimbursed by the city. This was clearly wrong. They should have necepted no favors from the bidders. They were to act as judges and jurors and should not have placed themselves under obligations to those who sought their votes, but we doubt if the investigating committee will hold them guilty of actual dishonesty; still, they can hardly hope to escape without a reprimand. The same may be said as to all the members who allowed themselves to be feled by the agents of the bidders.

Richmond's new City Hall has cost her dearly, but until diseatisfied bidders for work on the building began to accuse each other not a word had been said which imhied that the city had been defrauded of n cent in connection with it. The day-labor system proved to be exceedingly costly, but there never was any suggestion. far as we know, that the money expended under it went into unclean hands. Now is disclosed a state of affairs with recard to the awards for certain contract work which is not agreeable and is apt to the greatly exaggerated by the public out-side of Richmond. Much has been done that ought never to have been done; bidders ent too far in trying to win the favor of the committee whose province it was to award contracts; well-known people in and out of the City Council have so acted as to bring upon themselves cause for lifelong regret; but we would not have the world believe that Richmond has "fallen into the hands of a Tween ring." All such talk is sheer nonsense. The com-mittee's report will, we doubt not, in due time fearlessly place the blame where it

"Curious Things."

Mr. MURAT HALSTEAD declares in his last letter in the New York Herald that there are curious things in the Disparce of June 7th. Possibly; but nothing more curious than the following statement of it is also known that there originated in Kentucky the idea of using silver as the se-curity for national-bank issues in place of bonds; that the subject was brought to the attention . Mr. John G. Carlisle, then senator of the United that he was impressed with the idea that some-thing might come of it and promised to draw up and introduce a bill, but was dissuaded, by and introduce a bit, but was distinct, by rather driven, from this theme by the hoisy and heedless opposition of free-silver inch, who would listen to nothing but their own bellowings." We have often expressed our surprise at finding in Mr. HALSTEAD's letters statements concerning President CLEVELAND which no other paper had made. "CLEVE-LAND and CARLISLE," he adds to the paragraph quoted above, "have been interest-ted precisely as here stated." Well, that might be good policy. There seems to be a great abundance of silver in the country, and if we could use it as the basis of a paper-circulation we might stop the clamor for a State-bank circulation having no such basis. Certainly we cannot under stand how the President could favor this silver-basis scheme and at the same time bank issues. By the way, the southern and western men who expect to establish State banks and issue $3 in paper for $1 of real money in their vaults will find In the end that they reckoned without their host, seeing that New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, &c., will have rapital enough to establish thousands of these three-to-one banks wherever they may promise to prove profitable. We quote oir. Halstead again:

"The Dispatch says the tariff should not be the leading topic in Congress, and that the first Buty of that body is not to frame a bill assuming that Congress has no power to levy customsduties save for revenue only. The DISPATCH wants 'a good financial system to support Mr. arlisle's new tariff." In Ohio the Republicans have in their platform come out against the repeal of the law taxing State-bank issues, and there s no good reason to doubt, we take it, that the Democrats will also come out against the abolition of that tax. At any tate, the matter is still undecided in that Certainly we want a good financial sysour superb stock of Shirts, Collars, tem to support Mr. Carlisle's new tariff.

A long pull, a strong pull, and a pull altogether to bring the largest stock of merchandise ever gathered in Richmond down to mid-summer proportions. We engineer a sale of this character usually about the middle of July, but with purchases this season aggregating $40,000 more than last year it is necessary to make this move before the goaways leave town. In other words, our attractions are greater and we'll have to play to bigger houses than we could get in July. It's a vast benefit to Our Public, too; for it gives them the opportunity to buy go-away things and stay-at-home things at prices often far less than
